Bridal Shower.

On October 29th, Mrs. Basil and Mrs. R. Rodney were hosted to a very pretty shower held at Springside school. The evening was spent in dancing.

At supper time the prospective bride and groom were seated upon a pedeestal, waving with glee with the strains of the wedding march, a miniature bride and bride and groom, Gracie Rodney and Richard Basil entered with a decorated wagon loaded with gifts.

Elsie and Lester expressed appreciation to their friends and all joined in wishing them every success.

Stores Close 12 Noon On Wednesdays

As the result of a petition circulated among the business men of Didsbury last weekend, it was decided that all stores should close at 12 o'clock noon each week Wednesday, instead of 1 p.m., as in the past.

It would appear from the wording of the petition, that the stores will be closed every Wednesday afternoon, irrespective of there being any holiday during the week.

Mail Christmas Greetings And Gifts Early

Mr. Morgan, our local post master, is asking the patrons of the post office to mail their Christmas Greetings and Gifts EARLY. He says "It is better to get Christmas mail three or four days early, than get it one day late."

It is imperative that Christmas mailing must be spread over a longer period this year. Experienced postal staffs have been further reduced because of enforcements, making it necessary to take on inexperienced help throughout the Dominion, and the situation is further aggravated because of the burden on all transportation facilities.

Early mailing is in the interests of the public — not simply the Post Office.

Shop early for your gifts and greeting cards, and Mail Early.

Didsbury Jottings

By A.C.H.

Twenty-four ladies attended the W.M.S. meeting at Mrs. H. Bowman's on Monday evening. The two nurses of the Rosebud Health Clinic addressed the ladies. Miss Beryl Saul told of the important work done in the medical field by missionaries in foreign parts. They were the central point from which medical aid as well as spiritual aid was extended to the natives. Mrs. H. Bowman, president of the W.M.S., remarked on the honor that has come to medical missionaries in general, because of the discovery by one of them, of a cure for leprosy.

Mrs. Pendleton spoke of the importance of inoculations with regard to diseases such as whooping cough, small pox, scarlet fever, and so on. She urged all parents to take their children to the clinic for these inoculations which are entirely free. "The Clinic", she said, "is there for you to use". At present, there are about nine, but the Government intends to have as many as twenty-six in operation. Adults are entitled to free inoculations, too. All you have to do is to appear at the Clinic on Saturday morning, between 9 and 12 a.m.

The W.M.S. are pleased to record that they have gathered in sufficient money for their Missionary quota, which is $65. A large percentage of this was taken in through the W.M.S. teas.

Fit-Sgt. Clarence Johnson is in the news. Clarence has won one of the six Victory Bonds sponsored by the Royal Milkmen in Calgary. Five of the bonds were won by Calgary people. The 6th came to Didsbury. Clarence's bond was a fifty. Oh well, he probably works harder than anyone else down at the creamery and is only getting his just deserts.

There was a good crowd at the Legion picture show, to see the "Remarkable Andrew". Thursday night. There must have been a moral in it somewhere. The only one we could see was that if you were being accused of fraud, have some Maryland rye on hand. What would happen if all you had was weak tea? Would you have to be contented with a ghost like Hettie Green.

The Didsbury Tanks Reserves are going up to the Blood Donors Clinic soon to leave their donations. Someone asked us why animal's blood wouldn't do as well. For instance, cat's blood. We said we didn't know. Perhaps it would except it might leave a soldier with tendency to bite off the roof and howl.

The Air Blockade

FOR MANY MONTHS PAST, there have been few days on which we have not heard reports of large-scale Allied air raids on Germany, and on German-occupied territory. It is apparent that these raids are a part of the great Allied offensive and that they form one part of the master plan for the destruction of Germany. We are told that this great air offensive had its beginning in the Battle of Britain, a little more than three years ago, when the Royal Air Force, greatly outnumbered in both men and machines by the Luftwaffe, destroyed 2,375 German "planes with a loss of only 755 British machines. At this time the supremacy of the air over Britain was established by the Royal Air Force, and that supremacy was gradually extended over the English Channel and farther and farther into the skies over Europe. As greater numbers of planes and men have become available, the Allies have steadily developed these air attacks, which are without doubt hastening the downfall of Germany.

R.A.F. Trained For Offensive

It has been pointed out that the Luftwaffe was built up, in the years before the war, as a supporting weapon for Germany's land armies. In contrast, Britain's strategy included plans for the destruction of enemy territory, to supplement the already well-tried naval blockade. It has been calculated that land forces constitute only one-fifth of a nation's war strength, and that the other four-fifths is in its war industries and transport systems. Accordingly, the Royal Air Force was trained not only for combat, but to carry on the destruction of the main part of the enemy's military might. Results of the large raids of recent months have shown how effective this strategy has been. Hamburg, Essen, Cologne, and other German cities have been demolished, and with them many important war industries. The effect of these raids on the production of war materials and on the morale of the German people will no doubt be an important factor in Germany's ultimate defeat.

Oil Supplies Are Reduced

In carrying out this great air blockade, the Royal Air Force has in some cases increased the effectiveness of the naval blockade. An example of this has been shown in the case of Nazi oil supplies. The Royal Navy cut off 80% of Hitler's pre-war imports, and subsequently all attacks have been directed at oil wells and refineries whose products were available to Germany. Likewise, while the navy has disrupted German shipping near the coast of Europe, the Air Force has destroyed great numbers of trains and locomotives in enemy territory. In 1939 it is said that Germany had a shortage of 6,000 locomotives and 112,000 freight cars. "Train busting raids," which the Canadians take part, have now become a part of the offensive, and it is estimated that 150 German locomotives are destroyed each month in these raids. In addition, German locomotive factories are frequently attacked and it is known that the railway system in Germany and Occupied Europe are badly disrupted. These facts all show the great importance of the air offensive in the Allied plan for the defeat of Hitler.

PROTEIN CONTENT OF WESTERN WHEAT

For the 12 year period 1927-1938, the average protein content of shipments of Western Canadian wheat is estimated as 13.5 per cent. If no wheat had been shipped from the northern zone, says the report of a recent investigation, the average protein level would have increased by about 0.5 per cent.

Japan Optimistic

High Officials Confident They Will Eventually Win The War

High Japanese officials appear to expect that Germany will collapse, but declare the war will continue for five years after that, a Chilean correspondent for Imperial of Santiago, returning home on the exchange ship Tito Maru, asserted.

The correspondent said the official Japanese position was that the German collapse would not affect the Japanese greatly because Japan was prepared to stand alone. On the other hand, the Japanese feel that Germany's fate is greatly affected by Japan's moves.

The correspondent, not a repatriate since his country is not at war with Japan, said so far as he was able to ascertain from outward appearance the Japanese people still are convinced they will win the war.

He said the Japanese had been relatively successful in winning the support of local populations in all parts of their captured territory except the Philippines, where the people remained hostile.

Deepest Well In The British Empire Reaches Depth Of More Than Two Miles

Reported to be the deepest well in the British Empire, Shell Oil Exploration's test in the Jumping Pound area, 25 miles southwest of Calgary, has reached a depth of 11,535 feet—more than two miles into the earth.

Shell officials stated they intended to carry on for another 250 feet in the limestone, if necessary.

Only Turner Valley wells, so far, have obtained commercial production from the Madison limestone in the foothills of Alberta.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

MUTE symbols of the heroic stand of the First Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hong Kong in 1941, a detailed battle sketch, photographs of a Boy Scout who badge-scouts come back to Canada, souvenirs found there by D. G. E. Middlebourg, former Netherlands Consul General, while interned in the Crown Colony. He has since been repatriated.

Western men were in the foreground of the First Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers in the fighting in the Sicilian campaign, and awards for bravery announced recently would indicate that fact. A Military Cross, among others, went to Lt. John E. Conroy, of the Royal Canadian Artillery. For rushing a pill box single-handed, L.C. Edmond Paterneau, 23, of St. Albert, Alta., got a Military Medal, as did Private W. H. Kelly, 38, of New Haven, Manitoba. Among the other Military Medal awards winners also were Corp. R. W. Ellendson, Edmonton, Alta., and J. G. McBride of Vancouver and Custer, Sask.

U.S. reaction to the rescue of ten army flyers by the H.M.C.S. "Georgian" in the shadow of icebergs in the cold Atlantic was enthusiastic and the first to speak publicly Western men who participated included Stoker Petty Officer Sidney Franch of North Battleford, Sask.; Codet John Ball, Mount Jay, Saugerties, N.Y.; Seaman Carl Thompson, Cannonsburg, Ont.; Lieutenant Captain James A. McLean, who was present when the boys said: "We're really touching them up, we're trying to get wet garments to locate pictures of wives and families; they keep kissing the pictures and praising the seamstress in one breath. Each of the airmen who were rescued has a picture in his pocket log afterwards."

Private Marie Christie of the Canadian Army Service Corps, who decorated the costumes for the Lunts on Broadway and trained under Valentine New York's famous designer, has passed judgment on the C.W. Air Force uniforms and said they are very smart." She should know, because she wears that uniform now. She thinks the whole outfit has character, and so you go!"

With the R.C.A.F. overseas: Distinguished Flying Crosses for Canadian fliers who are rated among the best in the world. One of our boys, W. R. Wilhelmsen of Elbow, Sask., will wear the ribbon now for his gallant part in a "large number of sorties." And so will F.O. D. E. Gabell, of Elbow, who, when with the R.A.F. Pilot Officer Gabell of Didsbury, Alta., got one for a real stand out Turin on a raid. One of our stand behind enemies caused fire and smoke, the plane fell away and the burning engine died. He was wounded, but that was nothing, for he got that aircraft back to base despite these seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

An incident which should propel us all toward the blood donor bank. A young Argentine, healthy-looking, six months old, Lieut. Edward J. O'Farrell of Hamilton, Ont., on operational duties on a motorcycle, spill near Glace Bay, N.S., was immediately taken by an ambulance to a hospital, 16 miles away, and frequently, taken to an R.C.A.F. hospital by a passing civilian motorist, down to Montreal three hours later with a Navy nurse, and given transfusions, with the help of the R.C.A.F. Crash Team work! And the officer has been able to tell the story himself.

SWINE ERYSPIELAS

Usual Among Young Pigs During Spring, Summer Or Fall

Swine Erysipelas has for many years been one of the most important diseases affecting swine in Central Europe and the British Isles. It made its appearance on this continent about 1921 and since that time has become very prevalent in this province. Swine of all ages are susceptible, as a result outbreaks of swine erysipelas are confined to pigs under six months of age. It is more common during the spring, summer and fall, but may occur any season of the year.

The cause of swine erysipelas is an organism known as the erysipelothrix iridescent. It is very resistant to heat and cold, and may remain in the soil for many years. This disease should be repeated every 12 to 24 hours until improvement is noted. This serum can also be used to give immediate protection to healthy swine which have been exposed to outbreaks of this disease; a 10 to 20 cc dose, according to the size of the pig, should be used. In the treatment of swine erysipelas, especially the autumn form, it has been found that the antisemum has proved of little value and is not recommended.

Prevention. On premises where swine erysipelas is known to exist, the project can be carried out by the following method: Inject each pig with one week of age with 10 cc of anti swine erysipelas serum, 5 cc on each side of the spine above the sacrum, to be repeated thirty days. This method is effective during the life of the average pig. Smaller doses of anti swine erysipelas serum are frequent recommendations for the prevention of swine erysipelas in baby pigs, but doses of less than 10 cc have not proven very satisfactory.

On premises where the disease has been prevalent, the healthy swine should be kept away from contaminated houses, pens and pastures.

Swine known to have been infected should not be kept for breeding purposes. Contaminated houses, pens, and pastures should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Battle-Scarred Bugle And Royal Winnipeg Rifles Hat Badge Are Mute Symbols Of Heroic Stand

WINNIPEG.—A dented, battle-scarred bugle and a Royal Winnipeg Rifles hat badge have come back home to Canada, mute symbols of the heroic stand of the 1st Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hong Kong in 1941, and holding in trust a tale that will not be fully revealed until the war's end, if then. The two war souvenirs were found at Hong Kong by D. G. E. Middleburg, former Netherlands Consul General while he was interned in the Crown Colony prior to being repatriated.

Substantial evidence indicated the bugle was the property of the Winnipeg Grenadiers. A standard Army instrument, it bears the stamp of a Toronto manufacturer, and is bound with the familiar green tasseled lanyard. It is the colour of burnished copper and has a silver mouthpiece. The lower portion contains a score of dents.

The bugle has been forwarded to the 2nd (R) Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers, according to Lieut.-Col. S. M. Scott, M.C., officer commanding the unit, said: "The value of the 1st Battalion at Hong Kong is a source of pride to Canada as a whole and in particular to the members of the 2nd Battalion. This bugle will serve as a constant reminder to men of the unit here of that heroic stand."

An honored place has also been found for the R.W.R. hat badge. It is resting today among battle souvenirs of the Riel Rebellion of 1869, the South African War and the First Great War. Hung side by side with a painting from Louis Riel's bedroom, a sniper's rifle used by a direct descendant of Riel killed while serving with a World War regiment, the badge is mute evidence that although the "Little Black Devils" didn't take part in the battle for Hong Kong as a unit, some of its former members saw action there with the 1st Battalion Winnipeg Grenadiers.

A score of members of the regiment, oldest infantry regiment in Western Canada, who celebrated its 100th anniversary this year transferred from the ridge to the Winnipeg Grenadiers just prior to the departure of the latter unit to the Far East. It is presumed that the badge belonged to one of these men.

Meanwhile, 16-year-old Russell Smith believes the badge might belong to his father. Pte. Frank Smith, 1179 Pritchett Avenue, Winnipeg, who was among the R.W.R.'s who made the transfer. Pte. Smith is now in a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp. Lieut.-Col. J. E. Tulloch,

Subject Of Study

Occupied Countries Trying To Defeat Nazis' Scorched Earth Tactics

How to prevent the Germans from carrying out their scorched earth tactics when they retreat is the subject of considerable study by patriot groups in Holland, Belgium and France. When the Germans retreated from Belgium and France in the last war, it was recalled, they effected large-scale destructions, the worst of which was the flooding of mines which took years to restore.

Patriots in each district are being warned to take special precautions in order to frustrate German designs against their mineral wealth, means of production and transport.

Vermilion Oil Wells

Railway Is Taking Entire Output For Western Lines

R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, announced that Cumar Oils Limited, a subsidiary of the C.N.R., has begun production of fuel oil from wells at Vermilion. About 100,000 barrels a month are being shipped via the railway's locomotives in western Canada.

Cumar Oils controls 620 acres of Vermilion, where 20 wells have been drilled, 10 of which are producing 350 barrels a day. A total of 50 wells is planned.

In addition the railway is taking the entire output of the Vermilion refinery company's treating plant close to Vermilion, the announcement said.

"We are opening the wells," Mr. Vaughan said, "as a wartime measure of precaution to secure an adequate supply and reserve of fuel oil for the railway's western services."

The United Nations Will Plan Post-War Aviation As One Of Most Important Peace Factors

(By Captain A. G. Lumpugh)

THE more the peoples of the earth see of each other the less chance there is of misunderstanding, disagreement and war. The development of safe and economical air transport is one of the most important factors in post-war peace and friendship. The vast technical developments in aviation produced by war needs will, we hope, be safely steered into peacetime channels within the next five years.

It is fully realized in Britain that unless the world is able to regulate its international air transport on lines giving reasonable freedom of facilities, and unless air transport itself operates to greater standards of safety and economy, we shall not see a considerable development of air travel for some years.

Safe and regular services from Britain to many parts of the world by night and day will be ensured, but the unknown factor of the moment is the cost—either to the individual or to the State—and on this depends to a large extent the number of people who will be able to visit each other's country freely. When this difficulty is resolved, then attention must be given to the result from the increased use of air transport and the resulting ability to see each other's problems at first hand and embark on new projects of mutual interest.

Clearly, the policy of the United Nations will be to encourage this state of affairs as far as possible throughout the world.

It is interesting to recall briefly the history of shipping, which, in many respects has a parallel in the lighter medium of the air. The first power-driven ships were built entirely for the carriage of passengers and mail, and it was not until half a century after steam-driven ships were first used that they started carrying bulk cargo. Eventually a large proportion of the world's seaborne tonnage was devoted wholly to the carriage of bulk cargoes. It would be remarkable to think at this stage that the air will not be as useful in carrying bulk cargoes as the sea has been. But we are only on the fringe of development in air matters, and must bear in mind the possibility of the eventual carriage of heavier cargoes. Even if air commerce has to be limited to the transport of passengers, mail and light freight, it will, if properly handled by the peace-loving nations of the world, bring considerable benefit to the communities which it serves.

One aspect of air freight service has just come prominently into public notice by the towing of a glider full of materials across the Atlantic from Canada to Britain. Admittedly, airborne troops have been towed for some considerable time, but this was the first attempt to tow a glider carrying weight in excess of might have been freight, ever such a tremendous distance as the Atlantic Ocean. The implication is that gliders could be towed by night or day dependent upon the season of the year, from country to country.

The shipping companies who have pioneered trade between other countries and the United Kingdom should be given an opportunity to participate in services such as these. Gliders will be useful also for internal services. Although it is impossible at this early stage to define exactly the safe and economic short haul work which can be done by gliders within the confines of a country, undoubtedly a great deal of research will be done in this respect in the near future.

At the cessation of hostilities the United Nations will turn their brains and hands to using the air as a peaceful means of communication, increasing their understanding and knowledge of each other's problems. I believe that we shall thereby remove one root cause of past wars—misunderstanding—and shall ensure a more lasting peace.

KENYA COLONY AGRICULTURE

The Kenya Agriculture Production Board has begun preparations on a large scale to grow wheat for the Middle East armies, and local bread is now mixed with 30 per cent. of maize to release more wheat for the forces.

Rag Doll Twins

Their chubby little cheeks make them look plump all over. Yet only the head is in three pieces . . . the body is made of but two. You may add a simple dress or styling clothes. Pattern for these, also, are included. Remember, every little girl "wants twins". Pattern 7627 contains a transfer pattern of doll and clothes instructions.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) to Household Arts Department, No. 100, 175 McDermott Avenue, Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and pattern Number. Because of the slowness of the mails delivery of patterns may take a few days longer than usual.

Tulloch, officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Royal Winnipeg Rifles. There is no possibility the badge belongs to Mrs. Smith's husband, Pte. Frank Smith, now a prisoner-of-war held by the Japanese. Lower right, Bugler "Terry" Webb and Lt.-Col. S. M. Scott, M.C., officer commanding, 2nd (R) Battalion Winnipeg Grenadiers and battle-scarred bugle found at Hong Kong. The World of Wheat
by H. G. L. StrangeTHE FARMER'S INCOME

We hear a good deal of discussion these days about the fact that the sale of Canadian farm products has increased by 25% over the preceding year. Many are jumping to the conclusion that because of this our farmers are 25% better off than they were.

This is a complete fallacy. It is true that with agricultural prices now up to the 1913-14 "parity" level our farming families are somewhat better off than they were in 1939, but additional gross income is not a proper yardstick to use in measuring the farmer's welfare, for the simple reason that to produce this additional gross income, many more animals have had to be kept and fed. These additional animals require greatly increased expenditures so that the only benefit that comes to the farmer from the increased gross income is the net profit that is left after paying all the heavy extra production expenses. This additional net profit will be found to be only a comparatively small sum.

It must never be forgotten, too, that the costs which farmers have to pay for production have steadily increased from the start of this war, and that farmers, unlike industrial labour, receive no Dominion bonus to make up for their additional costs of living and production.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

Condition of the new U.S. winter wheat crop is reported much lower than at this time last year—Harvesting of the large crops in the U.K. this year, combined with periods of unfavourable weather, has held up seeding of the new crop—Argentina's exportable wheat surplus is estimated at 145,246,000 bushels, compared with 165,325,000 bushels a year ago.

Seeding of winter grains is under way over most of Europe with favourable soil conditions in most sections. Grain prices have fallen in Argentina and crop conditions are now considered excellent—Italy's 1943 wheat crop was considered good to excellent, and production is estimated at from 275 to 280 million bushels.

Research Laboratory Needed in the West

With both the war and the development of chemistry well advanced, apparently nothing has yet been done by the federal authorities to set up a research laboratory in Western Canada to discover new uses for western farm crops. It was indicated several years ago that the matter was being studied at Ottawa, but it is one of those projects shelved by the war indefinitely.

Chemurgy has made great headway in the United States and many of the discoveries of American laboratories are available for Canadian study. The North West Linen Elevators' association has been advocating for some time that the federal government should set up a western division of the National Research Council, equipped with an adequate laboratory and skilled technicians. The first move to attain that objective was the recent appointment of a prairie regional committee to work with the National Research Council. This should be followed up by real action.

Dealing with this subject, the Weekly Market News of Winnipeg said the other day: "What is needed is not general recommendations but specific findings on problems now confronting the West—not a committee but a laboratory. When the war has finished the need for finding new uses for Western crops and for finding new sources of wealth in the West will become more urgent. Something more than a gesture is needed now."

"The appointment of the committee is an acknowledgement by the government that something must be done. On a matter so vital to the West any action should take the form of a real attack. Appointment of a committee, if it is left at that, is not likely to be considered by Westerners as a 'real attack'". —Calgary Herald

So many parcels for Canadian army personnel are insecurely wrapped that five soldiers at the Base Post Office do nothing else but re-wrap and re-address packages.

Lone Pine Notes

The November meeting of the W.L.I. was held at the home of Mrs. B. Woods, with 14 members and 6 visitors. One quilt was turned in for the Red Cross, and patches for making more tops were given to the members. As Mrs. Otto Faas is moving away, to west of Carstairs, Mrs. Otto Bittner is acting secretary until end of year. Each member is going to make a scrapbook; The draw was a won by Miss Myra Hughes. Mrs. Woods put on a good concert which was won by Miss Hazel Lachman. An auction sale of Madeover clothing helped our funds by $9.30. The next meeting will be held at the hall on December 9, with election of officers for 1944.

A very successful dance was held on Friday by the Jutland teacher, Miss Odde, at our hall. Her dance was in aid of the children's Christmas Tree fund.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Faas, on Thursday evening. They will be greatly missed by us all, as they are leaving our district to farm west of Carstairs. Mrs. Faas was presented with a casserole from the W.L.I., and the neighbors and friends presented to both Mr. and Mrs. Faas, a cushion top and pyrex bowl with a sum of cash, and all our good wishes in their new home. Cards were played during the evening and a nice lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pross spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pross.

Mrs. Geo. Hergert, of Calgary, is spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Walter McCullough, and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mackie, of Arrewood, spent the weekend with their sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark.

Red Cross Asks For Fruit and Jellies

An appeal has been made for jams, jellies and fruit for the Junior Red Cross Children's Hospital. The response has not been quite as good as expected and we think this matter will have been overlooked by many who would like to contribute.

Please spare at least one jar for the children. They can be left at either Studer's store or with Johnson & McCloy.

The due date for receiving fruit is next week, when the contributions received will be sent to the Junior Red Cross Hospital.

Appeal for Men who can Be Spared from Farms

Under the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Program an appeal is being made for men who can be spared from the farms during the winter months, for work in other essential industries. The need in industries such as logging, lumbering, mining, fishing, packing plants and track maintenance is acute, and in order to meet the requirements in these industries, farmers and farm workers, who can be spared from the farms during the slack season, are being asked to take employment outside of agriculture.

Only men who can be spared from the farms will be accepted for employment in other industries and to guard against essential men leaving the farm, the approval of the District Agriculturist or Local Labor Representative is required before the worker is directed to other work. As further assurance that the farm worker will be available for the 1944 production campaign, his permit to engage in another occupation outside of agriculture will automatically expire on March 31, 1944.

When a farm worker of military age secures temporary employment in an essential industry outside of agriculture, pursuant to a permit from National Selective Service, such temporary employment will not interfere with his postnomination as a farm worker. However, the worker must notify the War Mobilization Board of his change of address and employment.

DIDSBURY PIONEER, DIDSBURY, ALTA.

The recruiting campaign is being organized by the District Agriculturists, who are being assisted by the Local Labor Representatives and members of the Farm for Victory committees. Men who can be spared from the farms during the winter months should inquire of the District Agriculturist or Local Labor Representative of employment available, and they may secure full information from these officials.

want remained mute when he pleaded. "Denys loves you, Anne," Jonathan said in a short while. "And to me, even in the short while I knew him, he proved himself everything a friend should be. He must cross blades with Farquhar."

She took a long breath, then relaxed it in a little sigh. "You cannot do otherwise. But—Jonathan."

His arms tightened about her and he kissed her gently. Then he released her and stepped back. "My sword is in that closet," he said, turning toward a padded wardrobe. I return, I will return here until I return. I shall send you a maid to attend to your wants."

A SARDONIC voice cut into the instructions. "Keep away from that closet, Hale! If you step any nearer to that sword, I shall send a maid to you."

In the spiced doorway of the bedroom stood Lord Farquhar, the barrel of a pistol aimed straight at Jonathan Hale. While Jonathan and Anne stood there, Farquhar blacked up his lordship advanced a step into the room and closed the door.

"You need more than a mask to hide yourself," he said. "Anne, he said with a cold smile. I spotted you among those mimics and hunted you as soon as the pageant was ended. I lingered outside in the hall, overhearing every word of this touching reunion."

"Put up that pistol, Farquhar," said Jonathan. "You have a sword downstairs and behind this house is a garden where we can settle our differences."

"Do not fight commoners!" The sunken eyes reflected the coldness on the thin lips. "You forget that I have just learned that John Hale goes to the same old-time old-time old-chopping Puritan from Winnest."

Jonathan smiled with deliberate contempt. "I had imagined that the trial you received at my hands took a certain course; however, would be enough to cause you to overlook the differences in our stations."

The bony jaw bulged as Farquhar maintained reserve under the taunt.

"I am Jonathan," Farquhar said. "That when I found you again I would let you live this long. But greater than my wish to earn you to bits were a certain country lawyer would be enough to cause you to overlook the differences in our stations."

He moved further forward, placing himself between the wardrobe and the door of the room. "You may as well take chairs," he said. "This conversation may be lengthy."

JONATHAN eyed the raised hand. "What you see is only a shell that I am about ready to discard.

If Denys were alive he would tell you all my sins, but you must not waver."

He met her gaze while helping me search for you. Would he have done that if he did not know it was you who was in error during his understanding at the Castle Theatre?"

"No," she admitted. "But this process—"

"It from Denys he noted.

"And I used the gold as a foundation for this splendor that puzzles you. Yet in spite of all that, Anne, I ask you to have faith in me."

"Oh, Jonathan!" Her lips moved tremulously. "I want to believe you."

He reached out and she came unwillingly when he drew her closer.

"You're in much too look at me. She refused to meet his gaze.

In stead, her head went down and then in a sudden, convulsive movement, she began clinging to his neck, her hands gripping the collar and neck of his doublet. "No, Jonathan," he heard her muffled sob. "Down in my heart I knew you to be incapable of such wickedness."

"No!" Anne cried involuntarily. "No, my lord, not that!"

Jonathan stirred in his chair. His intent to have me jailed, let us go downstairs and have your story told."

"I would like to," he murmured his lordship, "to have the suggestion come from Misses Jamison."

Calories And Crackers

Great Difference In The Caloric Values Of Different Foods

(By Molly O'Dale)

Calories are units of measurement used by nutritionists to express the potential energy values of foods and the energy requirements of the human body. Calories have nothing to do with food classifications, such as proteins, fats or carbohydrates, or vitamins, minerals or fiber content.

The number of calories needed each day vary according to age, sex and character of metabolism from one to four thousand depending upon the list of my guests. Their shadow dimmed the brightness of his countenance. "But—there still remains a host of unfinished business—my dear Farquhar."

Jonathan pressed his face down that curling, red-brown hair.

"Anne, my Anne!" His voice was husky as her own. Tenderly he turned her head around and thrust a finger of free hand under her chin, forcing the bowed head to raise. As her face lifted under his, he kissed her again and again, placing his hands on the lids and closed eyes, her soft mouth and finally on the soft, sensitive mouth.

"You shall be my wife before you leave this house," he said.

"I assure Sir Maurice Blamey that I did not forget my duty when making out the list of my guests."

Then shadow dimmed the brightness of his countenance. "But—there still remains a host of unfinished business—my dear Farquhar."

His arms shared the tremor that went through her. "What do you intend, Jonathan?"

"I have not yet told you why he became a Londoner," he said. "Anne, last night I did not know the name of his lordship nor where to seek him. This was the only way I could find him and—so I thought—through you."

"Now that you have found me, must you continue this quarrel? After all, his lordship has not harmed me."

Record Chalked Up By Members Of The Gutta Percha & Rubber Limited

Imagine working for one firm for 25 to 56 years!

That's the record chalked up by 266 members of the Gutta Percha & Rubber Limited, staff throughout Canada.

So unique is the history of the rubber industry of Canada—or even of Canadian industry at large is this record that the firm celebrated by forming a 25 Year Club and presented each of the members an engraved gold watch.

In Toronto over a thousand employees gathered on October 5th, at a reception in the Royal York Hotel to mark 25th anniversary of the company and the President Mr. E. A. Warren told them of his warm affection and respect for all his "old friends" and regretted that he could not be present at the meetings held on the same date in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal and Halifax for 22 other members of the 25 Year Club, while at Edmonton, October 15 was the date.

The Vice-President of the 25 Year Club is Walter J. Scott, a senior member with 56 years service to his credit, and on behalf of the Charter Members he presented a desk set to Mr. Warren.

There is something heart-warming and non-commercial about firm which so respects and recognizes its men who have been faithful to it. That is the spirit of the future generation too, because without this spirit war will have been fought in vain. After all one quarter of a start number of 266, 66 have served 25 years or more is some record!

Cost Of War

Civilization Pays For War At Rate Of $30,000 Second

Cmrd. Stephen King-Hall, British Conservative M.P., told an Empire Club audience in Toronto that the price civilization is paying for war totals $50,000 a second or $422,000-a-day.

"I do not say this is too high a price to pay," he said. "No price can be too high provided, when the account is settled, we achieve our purpose."

Cmrd. King-Hall said events will take care of the question of British-American cooperation after the war, he warned against the "dangerous and sour-something" doctrine that every nation has the right to choose its own form of government.

"If you mean the actual style of government, I agree," he said. "If you mean the principle of government, I disagree."

Following the war some fraction of what is spent on destruction must be devoted to peace and constructive purposes or the peace will not last.

He said: "The scientific basis for the perennial popularity of crackers and cheese. This simple, buttered soda cracker with cheese, contains the three food items that are at the top of the caloric list."

These are great differences in the caloric value of different foods. But the ranker highest, with 3375 calories to the pound, biscuits and soda crackers—one next to 1976 to the pound, with cheese ranking third at 1670 calories to the pound. The lowest of all is spinach, which has only 110 calories to the pound.

Crackers are unquestionably a sound scientific basis for the perennial popularity of crackers and cheese. This simple, buttered soda cracker with cheese, contains the three food items that are at the top of the caloric list."

The high caloric value of biscuits and crackers is due to the fact that they contain many other food ingredients such as moisture, fat and carbohydrates.

And the best way to do this is to eat instead of 'dosing' with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief. Just follow this simple plan. Eat

Beau Jonathan

by J.B. Ryan

CHAPTER IX.

THE girl straightened at Jonathan's a song girl," she read the French words for the first time and translated the words of the white mask watchful as "Every man to his taste." That was Denys' favorite motto, Jonathan, and this was his purse. Almost every actor in the theatres of London could identify it as his property.

"I see no harm in that. Then you believe, Mistress Anne, that I killed Denys?"

"Yes, my girl," Jonathan said with his brows. "Sir Maurice paid you so little that you must steal from me." Or have you some ready explanation for your presence in my quarters?"

The girl lifted her hand and slowly removed the mask from her face. "I did not come to steal, Jonathan."

The man stared open-mouthed at the girl who had unexpected been confronted with Lord Farquhar was nothing compared to the shock that went through him now at sight of the girl's face. He had been not mistaken, then, about that reddish hair.

"Anne!" he managed to gasp.

Anne Jameson nodded.

"Anne!" he cried once more. Then a long stride took him to the desk beside her. But before his out-stretched arm could close about her, the girl said:

"Do not touch me—you murderer!"

"Anne!" He tried to smile. "Surely you recognize me as Jonathan Hale."

"I know you down in the ball room," she said stonily. "I joined those hummers merely to come here to see for myself that Master John Hale was about. I left London talking with the Jonathan Hale I know. I did not see how a per Puritan from Winnet could be the new beau of London unless—

"Anne, I do not care what you think!" From the bottom of my heart I love God that you are mine. Ever since you ran away from me the thought that you were in the power of Farquhar has kept me in torment."

He gestured toward a chair. "If you will sit down, Anne, I shall tell you everything that happened."

"No need to explain, Master Hale. I know how you have achieved all the most."

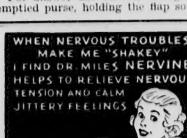

When you entered this room, it was in your mind to turn me over to the wench as a thief. Summon the authorities if you will, Jonathan. I too have a secret to tell."

Once again he was taken aback.

"Anne—what do you mean?"

For answer she turned, lifting the hem of her dress back.
